

PRONOUNS

Dialogue 1

Context: Invitation

Adam: Hey Jack! Guess what? We've been invited to a wedding ceremony!

Jack: Really? Whose wedding is it?

Adam: Our friend Sarah's wedding. She sent us a beautiful invitation.

Jack: That's nice, but I'm not sure if I want to go.

Adam: Come on, Jack! It's going to be a special day for Sarah. We should support her.

Jack: I understand, but weddings can be quite boring, don't you think?

Adam: Well, it's true that some weddings can be dull, but this one might be different. Plus, we'll get to see old friends and have a good time.

Jack: I guess you're right. It would be nice to catch up with everyone.

Adam: Exactly! And think about the delicious food they'll have at the reception.

Jack: Hmm, that's a good point. I do love good food.

Adam: See, Jack? It's going to be a fun celebration. We can dance, meet new people, and enjoy ourselves.

Jack: I suppose you're right. I just hope it won't be too formal.

Adam: Don't worry. Sarah mentioned that it will be a relaxed and casual event.

Jack: Alright then, count me in. I'll go with you.

Adam: That's the spirit, Jack! I knew you wouldn't want to miss it.

Jack: Thanks for convincing me, Adam. It'll be great to be there for Sarah on her special day.

Adam: No problem, Jack. I'm sure Sarah will appreciate our presence. Let's make it a memorable day for her!

Dialogue 2

Context: Invitation

Eva: Hey Mariam! I heard the exciting news. Congratulations on your upcoming graduation!

Mariam: Thank you, Eva! I can't believe it's almost here. I've worked so hard for this moment.

Eva: I'm incredibly proud of you, Mariam. You've put in years of dedication and effort to reach this milestone.

Mariam: I couldn't have done it without the support of amazing friends like you, Eva. That's why I want you to be a part of my graduation celebration.

Eva: That means the world to me, Mariam. I would be honored to celebrate your achievement with you. When and where is the graduation party?

Mariam: The party will be held at my parents' house next Saturday evening. It's going to be a casual gathering with close friends and family.

Eva: Sounds perfect! I can already imagine the joyful atmosphere and the proud smiles on everyone's faces.

Mariam: Yes, I can't wait to share this special moment with the people who have been there for me throughout my academic journey.

Eva: I'll make sure to mark the date in my calendar and clear my schedule. I wouldn't miss this celebration for anything.

Mariam: Thank you, Eva. Your presence will make the occasion even more memorable for me.

Eva: It's my pleasure, Mariam. I've watched you grow and overcome challenges to reach this point. Celebrating your success is the least I can do.

Mariam: You've been a real friend, Eva. Your constant encouragement and belief in me have been invaluable. I couldn't ask for a better friend.

Eva: The feeling is mutual, Mariam. Seeing you succeed brings me so much joy and excitement. I can't wait to witness your graduation ceremony as well.

Mariam: I'm glad you'll be there to share that moment with me. It'll be a proud and emotional day for my family, and having you by my side will make it even more special.

Eva: I'll be there, cheering you on every step of the way. Your graduation is not just an end, but a new beginning, and I'm excited to see where life takes you next.

Mariam: Thank you, Eva. Your unceasing support and friendship mean everything to me. I'm grateful to have you in my life.

Eva: Likewise, Mariam. Our friendship has stood the test of time, and I know it will continue to thrive as we embark on new chapters in our lives.

Mariam: Here's to our enduring friendship and to the exciting future ahead.

Eva: Congrats, Mariam! May your graduation be the start of countless achievements and happiness. Let's celebrate together!

Dialogue 3

Context: Invitation

David: Hey Mom, guess what? Mike is throwing a party this weekend to celebrate his success in the university exam!

Lily: That's great news, David! But you were really sick just a few days ago. Are you sure it's a good idea to attend a party so soon?

David: I understand your concern, Mom, but I've fully recovered now. The party is an opportunity to congratulate Mike and have some fun with our old classmates.

Lily: I worry that you might get sick again if you expose yourself to a crowded place. Your health is my top priority.

David: I appreciate your concern, Mom, but I promise to take precautions. I'll make sure to dress warmly and avoid close contact with anyone showing signs of illness.

Lily: It's not just about others, David. Your immune system may still be weakened from the recent illness. I don't want you to relapse.

David: I understand, Mom, but I don't want to miss out on celebrating this special occasion with my friends. It's important to show support and be there for Mike.

Lily: Well, if you promise to be cautious and take care of yourself, I suppose I can give you permission to go. Just remember to prioritize your well-being.

David: Thank you, Mom! I promise to be responsible and make wise choices. I'll make sure to dress warmly and avoid staying out too late.

Lily: Alright, David. I trust you to make good decisions. Remember to keep yourself hydrated and don't overexert yourself at the party.

David: I will, Mom. And I'll also keep you updated throughout the evening so you know I'm doing okay.

Lily: That would give me some peace of mind, David. It's reassuring to know that you'll keep me informed.

David: Absolutely, Mom. I want you to feel comfortable with my decision to attend the party. I'll make sure to prioritize my health and safety.

Lily: I appreciate your maturity, David. You've shown responsibility and consideration for both your friends and your own well-being.

David: Thank you, Mom. I'm glad you understand how important this event is for me. It means a lot to celebrate Mike's success and reconnect with our classmates.

Lily: I can see how much it means to you, David. Just remember to enjoy yourself while also being mindful of your health. Have a great time!

David: I will, Mom. Thank you for trusting me and allowing me to attend the party. I'll make sure to take care of myself and have a memorable evening.